ANNOUNCEMENT: Exchange Program Now Open for Applications for 2014-15!

Notre Dame Graduate Exchange with
Université de Rennes 2, France

The University of Notre Dame Department of Romance Languages and Literatures is pleased to invite applications for participation in the graduate exchange program at the Université de Rennes 2—Haute Bretagne, in the historic capital of Brittany. This program is designed for students with expertise in French or a focus on Celtic Studies (French and Irish).

The Université de Rennes 2 is the most important research center and higher education community for humanities and social sciences in Western France, and enrolls 20,000 students on three campuses. It is the site of a dynamic intellectual community and a lively cultural scene. Our exchange involves the college of Arts, Lettres et Communications on the Villejean campus, located on a convenient metro line to vibrant downtown Rennes, with its cafés, boutiques, and historical pedestrian zone. See the university’s website for full description: http://www.uhb.fr and the city’s website for ideas on the exciting lifestyle of this student-centered city: http://en.tourisme-rennes.com/

The Notre Dame student who will be in residence at Rennes 2 for the academic year 2014-15 will take at least one advanced class in French language (oral and written), and M.A.-level coursework in French literature (Lettres Modernes et Classiques, méthodologie) or Irish language and Irish literature (courses taught in English). The student will teach English language and American culture courses to French students in a variety of disciplines and receive a salary that is fully adequate to live a good life in France! Full details on curriculum, teaching responsibilities, salary, and logistics are available through the Notre Dame faculty representatives listed below.

Potential candidates include any advanced graduate student (M.A. or Ph.D.) in good standing with a specialization in French or Irish Studies.

To be considered for the program, candidates must submit by March 7:

- 600 word statement of interest and qualifications, including teaching experience
- Curriculum Vitae
- Letter of recommendation from one professor
