

International Economics Romance Languages (IERL) – Portuguese

The IERL major with a concentration in Portuguese requires a minimum of 8 courses in Economics and 5 in Portuguese beginning at 20201 or above. Students are also required to take a one-credit course, “Exploring International Economics,” and must complete a senior research project or equivalent designed to integrate their studies of economics and language and culture.

Equivalent literature and culture courses from international study programs or other universities may be substituted with departmental approval. A minimum of fifty percent of the credits toward the major must be taken in residence at Notre Dame. AP or SAT credit may not be applied toward the major.

Students are allowed to take two related courses in English. At least one advanced-level literature and culture course must be taken in Portuguese.

1. Math requirement:

Calculus I

Calculus II

2. Required courses in Economics:

a. ECON 10010/20010 _____	ECON 10020/20020 _____
ECON 30010 _____	ECON 30020 _____
ECON 30340 _____	ECON 30331 _____

b. Two Electives with the IEEL Course Attribute

3. Required 1.0-credit course, “Exploring International Economics” (spring):

LLRO 33000 _____

4. Required Courses in Romance languages - Portuguese:

a. Two ROPO 20000-level courses: ROPO 20201, 20202, 24201, 24235, 24333, 27201, 27221

b. One ROPO 30000-level course taught in Portuguese – Advanced Literature and Culture Class Taught in Portuguese

c. Two ROPO 30000-49999 electives taught in either Portuguese or English (possibly from study abroad in advanced-level program)

5. Required 3.0 credits course, Senior Research Project:

ECON 48100 _____ (or equivalent)