Lucia West

2020 graduate - Minor in Italian

Lucia West just started her first year of medical school at the University of California, San Francisco.

"The Notre Dame Community was a warm, welcoming supportive place that challenged me to dig deep in search of authenticity and passion. There is no other community quite like it! Speaking more generally, I loved Notre Dame's rich tradition from dorm spirit to football games!"

Kevin Gallagher

2021 graduate - International Economics Major - Spanish

Kevin Gallagher works as a management consultant/data visualization specialist at Booz Allen Hamilton in Washington D.C.

"Studying abroad in Puebla was one of the highlights of my academic experience as an International Economics major because I always felt like I was at the intersection of Mexican culture/society and economics, both in and out of the classroom. I was the only non-native Spanish speaker in several of my classes (like Finanzas públicas and La historia económica de México), and one of the only international students in them.

Working my brain to learn both new economics concepts and figure out how to effectively communicate my thoughts with my classmates and professors was a challenge, but it was an awesome and rewarding experience that I really miss".
